

HeartWare International Announces Expiration Of Hart-Scott-Rodino Waiting Period In Connection With Acquisition Of Valtech Cardio

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 3, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- HeartWare International, Inc. (Nasdaq: HTWR), a leading innovator of less invasive, miniaturized circulatory support technologies that are revolutionizing the treatment of advanced heart failure, announced today that the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976 (the "HSR Act") for its acquisition of Valtech Cardio, Ltd. ("Valtech"), has expired.

The expiration of the HSR Act waiting period satisfies the closing condition related to antitrust approvals for the proposed transaction, which remains subject to approval by HeartWare's and Valtech's shareholders and other customary closing conditions.

This transaction was approved by the Boards of Directors of HeartWare and Valtech, with holders of more than 70% of Valtech's shares having signed support agreements committing to the transaction. The transaction, which was announced on September 1, 2015, is expected to be consummated in early 2016.

Additional information concerning the proposed transaction is included in the preliminary proxy statement/prospectus, which was filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on October 16, 2015 and can be accessed on the SEC's website at <http://www.sec.gov/HWGlobal>.

The HSR Act is a U.S. regulatory provision that requires parties to submit a detailed filing of a proposed merger or acquisition with the U.S. Federal Trade Commission and Department of Justice. The agencies then require a waiting period while they review the filing to determine that the transaction will not adversely affect U.S. commerce under the antitrust laws.
